

John L. Scott takes the safety of our clients seriously. With that in mind, we kindly ask that you sanitize your hands as you enter the home and refrain from touching surfaces as you walk through the property. Additionally, we are limiting the number of in-person showings out of abundance of caution and respect for our sellers, so please take all the time you need.

Likewise, please know that if you are considering selling, we will extend this same level of service each time we open your home to potential buyers. At John L. Scott, we believe in providing “transactional excellence” no matter the circumstance.

Thank you in advance for your support as we navigate uncharted waters.
